

METHOD AND SYSTEM FOR FACILITATING MEDIATED COMMUNICATION

Abstract of the Disclosure

A mediation subscriber communication device as disclosed herein is capable of performing a method for facilitating mediated communication. In at least one embodiment of the method for facilitating mediated communication, the method includes facilitating display of mediation information on a visual display portion of a mediation subscriber communication device, facilitating designation of selected mediation information via a data interface portion of the mediation subscriber communication device, and transmitting the selected mediation information from the mediation subscriber communication device for reception by a mediation system.